BOTSWANA, OKAVANGO DELTA

OKAVANGO HORSE SAFARIS (KUJWANA CAMP) 2025

RIDE INFORMATION

We offer three different horse safari options in Botswana's Okavango Delta region. This information relates to Okavango Horse Safaris (OHS) which was established in 1986 by PJ and Barney Bestelink who pioneered horse safaris in Southern Africa. Born out of Barney's love of horses and PJ's love of the bush, these two elements, together with unmatched years of experience, still shine through into any safari with OHS. Now based at Kujwana Camp, with access to two other camping sites and a vast private concession area, safaris with OHS focus on exploring the Delta by horse and appreciating the natural environment. The horses are cherished above all else; the riding is run to exacting, professional standards and game drives, guided walks and boat trips are all included, ensuring a truly memorable, all-round experience.

OVERVIEW OF THE DELTA

The Okavango Delta region covers close to 15,000 square kilometres. Roughly one third, the central and eastern side stretching to Chobe National Park, has been designated a protected area, the Moremi Game Reserve. The rest is sub-divided into huge unfenced private wildlife concessions, all very carefully monitored and managed with strict guest quotas to help protect and preserve the natural environment for wildlife. The terrain across the region varies from the permanent water of the Okavango River, which joins the Delta to its northwest, papyrus swamps, reed beds and flat, open floodplain to thickly wooded date palm islands, riverine woodland and forests of mopane trees. Depending on the time of year, on rain that has fallen locally and in the River's main catchment area, the Angolan Highlands, 500 kms to the north, the floodplains (which look rather like the grassy fairway on a golf course when not flooded) may be covered with a layer of surface water ranging from a few inches to several feet deep in places. When rain in Angola falls into the Okavango River as it journeys south, the river gradually swells; then, as it meets the dry Kalahari basin, it divides like fingers on a hand into narrower waterways, spreading, saturating and flooding once-dry grassland to form marshy swamp and water meadow. The floods tend to go in cycles, a number of years of high water followed by a number of years of low. Usually the new water arrives in the main Delta region between late March and July each year, and subsides from August to October.

DATES

Safaris with OHS are possible year-round with set dates usually offered for 5, 7 or 10 nights between March and November and flexible dates between December and February. 7 and 10 night safaris usually start on a Saturday, although this sometimes varies. To check availability please contact us at Ride World Wide.

HORSES

There are over 50 horses at Kujwana, most between 14hh and 17hh. They include TB and TB crosses, American Saddle bred crosses, South African Boerperds, Friesian crosses, Arabs and Anglo Arabs. The majority are geldings and many are naturally bush-wise homebreds, offspring of Barney's beloved American Saddlebred (Lamu). The horses are looked after with immense care by a horse manager, under Barney's exacting and hugely experienced eye. They are used to game, being turned out freely to graze by day, are well schooled and responsive to ride which makes hours in the saddle a real pleasure. Grooms are on hand at all times at camp and to look after the horses during all safaris.

TACK

Tack is good quality English style - most horses go in snaffle bridles and saddles are mainly English general purpose (with a few 'Maclellan' style for heavier riders). 'Seat savers' (gel pads) are available for those who wish and pommel pouches and water bottles are provided.

RIDING

Safaris usually involve 4 to 6 hours riding a day, broken up with refreshment stops and occasional walks (approximately 10 minutes walking for every 2 hours in the saddle) to give horses a break and allow riders to stretch muscles. Safaris are based out of Kujwana camp but the daily programme always varies; some days you ride for 3 or 4 hours in the morning, setting off at dawn when the game is best and returning to camp for lunch and a long rest, before riding out again in the evening for up to 2 hours before sunset. On other days, there is a longer morning ride of up to 5 hours, you might stop for a picnic breakfast out in the bush, returning to camp for a late lunch, then perhaps a guided walk, mokoro trip (if water levels allow) or game drive in the late afternoon. From March to December, groups may also drive to the beautiful Mokolwane Camp further north to spend a night. On 10 night safaris, a night sleeping on platform beds under the stars or in a temporary mobile fly camp may be an option. Rides are generally limited to a maximum of 6 to 8 guests.

WEIGHT LIMIT

The rider weight limit is a strict 90kgs (14 stone 2lbs - riders may be asked to stand on the scales) in riding clothes although occasionally heavier experienced riders may be taken by prior arrangement. Please contact us if you are close to 90kgs - a special programme with shorter rides and other game viewing activities may be arranged (a 50% supplement may be charged for an extra horse if you exceed the weight limit; Maclellan style saddles are normally used for heavier riders).

PACE

Riding on safari is at a medium and well varied pace overall, with plenty of long trots and long exhilarating canters where the ground allows. When the flood is highest, you may find your horse has to wade shoulder high, or perhaps swim, to get from island to island, but even at high water the going around the edge of the islands is normally good to firm so there are usually plenty of chances for long trots and canters. Riders are able to spread out and take their own line where terrain allows but as riding is in a 'big' game area, you are always expected to stay behind the guide and take careful note of instructions. Riders may also be asked to get off and walk their horse from time to time, leading for about 10 minutes every 2 hours to rest horses' backs and stretch muscles.

RIDING EXPERIENCE

To ride with OHS you must be a reasonably competent, confident rider as you will be riding in an open wilderness area where there is 'big' (and potentially dangerous) game including elephant and lion. Although you don't need to be an expert over jumps or in competition, you should be comfortable, confident and in control on a horse at all paces (walk to fast canter) and used to riding in open country, over varied terrain with a group of horses. There is a good selection of responsive, well-schooled horses for different riders - ranging from clever, reliable Boerperds to long striding eager-to-please Warmbloods and TBs - but all riders must be balanced, relaxed and secure in the saddle, able to stay on if their horse reacts suddenly or needs to move quickly out of trouble. Children are accepted (usually only over 12 years unless special arrangement is made) but they must be strong, competent riders and to ensure this, a Pony Club or instructor's certificate may be required. All riders should also be riding fit and if you are not already used to long riding days, we strongly recommend accustoming yourself to the hours in the saddle before you go.

TERRAIN

Kujwana is in the southwest Delta, in a huge private concession with a good variety of terrain, ranging from big expanses of open floodplain to thickly wooded palm islands, dense forests of mopane and bigger shady trees. The camp itself is on a narrow island on the Delta's Xudum river system, to the southwest of Chief's Island. The flood in this area is usually reliable and, although it varies every single year, up until 2019 when the Delta suffered significant drought, very high-water levels have seen horses wading and sometimes swimming out of camp during peak water months (usually May, June and July) or to move from island to island. 2019 was, in complete contrast, a year in which the whole of the Delta experienced exceptional draught conditions and there was very little flood water everywhere even in June and July. When the flood recedes (usually late August into September) the area has plenty of open grassland making it ideal for horses. The second permanent camp used by OHS, Mokolwane is further north, on the Delta's Matsebe River system, situated on open floodplain and amongst smaller palm islands. This region usually gets its flood about 3 weeks earlier than Kujwana. On longer safaris riders may also be able to spend a night sleeping out on platforms or fly-camping, either on an island, or if the water is high possibly on Kujwana's barge 'Noah' on the Qwaapo river.

GAME

The Delta has huge numbers of game year-round and is a gloriously wild, unfenced and unspoiled game-rich environment. A large population of elephant roam through the area, along with large herds (sometimes several thousand head) of buffalo. Some game species are permanent residents (the characteristic water antelope - red lechwe - also sable, roan, shy sitatunga), whilst water lovers such as hippo and crocodile (and many of the larger predators) move around locally as water levels rise and fall. Unlike in East Africa, there is no single mass-herd migration and game such as giraffe, zebra, implala and wildebeest, migrate year-round in mid-sized herds, social or family groups to and from the drier Kalahari borders as water levels change. Warthog, tsessebe and kudu travel widely through the area as do lion, spotted hyena, leopard and wild dog. During any safari with OHS you can usually expect to see zebra, wildebeest, many species of antelope such as impala, perhaps kudu, roan, reedbuck, lechwe and tsessebe, giraffe and also crocodiles, monkeys, baboons and warthogs. Elephant and buffalo are often seen, frequently in large breeding herds, and if lucky you may see sitatunga, hyena, lion, leopard, cheetah and perhaps the endangered wild dog. A small number of white rhino have been successfully reintroduced into the Delta over the last ten years and whilst sightings are rare, they are definitely possible! The Delta is famous for birds with over 400 recorded species. Keen birders are often rewarded with excellent viewing of fish eagles, cranes, storks, vultures, kingfishers, ostrich, jacanas, bee eaters and many more. Generally it is considered one of the world's finest game viewing areas in any season both because of the density and variety of game but also because it is such an unspoilt pristine environment for wildlife - however it is important to remember that animals are free to roam across a vast, unfenced area, there may be more of one species than another in a particular place at a particular time and environmental factors such as long grass or high water can (and do) effect game viewing. If game takes cover in long grass or amongst date palms on the islands, it can be hard to spot or follow safely - although with access to a vast area, different habitats and camp locations, as well as the option of vehicles, boats and horses, OHS guests usually have fantastic game viewing. Also as the area is private, safaris are always a wonderfully exclusive experience, uninterrupted by other visitors or vehicles.

GUIDES & STAFF

PJ and Barney were the first people to operate horse safaris in the Delta, building an enviable reputation for their horses as well as the game viewing experience their safaris provide. PJ has now retired, but Barney continues to run OHS along with partners Gareth Peake and his wife Alex. Locally borne Gareth has worked as a guide for OHS and other horse safaris in Botswana and Kenya for the last 10 years, as well as running his own mobile safaris in Botswana. Alex, who moved to Botswana from the UK, first joined OHS in 2014 to help with camp management. Their combined history with OHS, as well as their love of horses and knowledge of the Delta, make them the ideal successors to PJ and Barney. Most daily rides are lead by licensed local guides, personally trained by PJ & Barney and all excellent game spotters and trackers. Several in the team have been with OHS since the beginning—Rodgers joined as a groom in 1993, qualified as a guide in 2006 and was lead riding guide for many years. He now leads mokoro and walking safaris. Safari logistics have been smoothly managed by Person (Percy) for many years and he and OB who works tirelessly to ensure the camp is well maintained, are an integral part of OHS. The camp and horses are excellently managed by Tanya Miller who grew up in Kenya and Tanzania.

ACCOMMODATION

Accommodation on safari is at the base camp, Kujwana, with a night (on safaris of at least 7 nights) generally included at Mokolwane Tree House camp and on 10 night safaris, sometimes also in a temporary 'fly' camp. Kujwana is an authentic, comfortable yet unpretentious camp that has been continually upgraded by PJ and his team over the last few years. It can sleep up to 14 guests in 4 'suites' (2 large riverside suites and 2 mini suites) and 3 large walk-in twin / double Meru safari tents, each set on a raised wooden platform, with its own bathroom with shower and flush loo. Suites and tents are linked by a teak walkway to the camp's main social area, which is under a canopy of trees and has sitting, dining, library and bar areas set with comfortable sofas and chairs. There is also a campfire area, a tree house with lovely view and a small plunge pool with sun beds - perfect for a dip after riding on hot Delta days. Mokolwane (owned and run by a separate company) is a lovely little camp with 5 spacious tree house rooms, each with its own bathroom with shower and flush loo, built 2 metres up in the trees. On 10 night safaris you may also stay at a simple 'fly' camp (the name comes from the days explorers headed off with just a fly sheet to make a temporary camp), or on platforms in the trees, in the area around the Quaapo River. The fly camp is set up ahead by staff. It has tables and chairs, a shared long drop loo, dinner is eaten al-fresco by the fire and nights are on platform beds or bedrolls under mosquito nets - a thrilling way to experience the bush under a canopy of Southern Hemisphere stars. Beds at all camps (and bedrolls at fly camp) are made up with cotton sheets, pillows and duvets and towels are provided. Safari rates are per person; there is usually no single supplement for single travellers but this is availability allowing - usually 2 singles maximum per group. Overall the OHS camp atmosphere is low key and laid back; dress is relaxed, when not riding you are welcome to spend time exactly as you wish - be that by yourself, enjoying the peace, quietly reading, relaxing by the pool or watching birds and game or more socially, joining others for drinks and to chat in the sitting and bar area.

MEALS

You will be extremely well fed on safari with three meals a day and snacks in between. Food is locally sourced, bread is baked every day and there is an emphasis on fresh vegetables and salads (but please let us know in advance if you are a vegetarian or have special dietary requirements). Lunches are al fresco, out in the bush or in camp after riding, dinner is three courses, accompanied by house wine and served by candlelight at a long table under the stars or in the dining tent. Beer, a selection of cold drinks and a choice of spirits (please let us know if you have a particular favourite), tea and coffee are also all included.

SAFETY

Rides are lead by an experienced, qualified and licensed guide, accompanied by a second back-up rider who is on hand to support and spot game. A .375 rifle is carried on all rides and both lead and backup guides also carry a 'bear-banger' (a small explosive device to scare off any troublesome game). When you arrive, there will be an introductory talk on the routine and safety when riding and a hand-held radio and first aid kit are taken out riding (with a more comprehensive medical kit in camp). The camp is in radio contact with Maun and has a satellite 'phone, for emergencies. Okavango Air Rescue emergency helicopter evacuation is included as standard for all guests (riders and non-riders - you must also have your own personal medical and travel insurance).

SUSTAINABLE TOURISM & ENVIRONMENT

Upholding the principles of sustainability and responsible eco-tourism, OHS promotes low-impact tourism. The camp is solar powered, manure is recycled into Biogas which fuels gas stoves for cooking and a Bio Rock solar powered sewage system cleans the waste water. With safaris primarily by horse or on foot, the camp's overall impact on the environment remains low.

WEATHER

Summer months in the Delta are September to April and the hottest months are generally October, November and February, with midday temperatures up to about 38 or 40 degrees C. The area experiences summer rain and the rainy season is usually December to February although it can rain in October and November. The coolest winter months, when it is also dry (no rain) are May to August when midday temperatures reach about 28 degrees C. During these months, and in early September, it can be quite cold in the early mornings and evenings (dropping to about 4 or 5 degrees C), but even at the coldest times of year, days are normally sunny and warm. Confusing to many guests, the dry winter months are when the Delta has its seasonal flood - caused when rain that has fallen a few months before in the Angolan Highlands, flows down the Okavango River causing the river to flood out over the Delta region.

WHAT TO BRING

We will send you a list when you book.

ITINERARY

Safaris are very individualized and the structure of each day depends on the movement of game, weather, water levels and guest preferences. Proposals for the next day are often discussed at dinner the night before. Safaris are based out of Kujwana but on a 7 night (or longer) safari, you might drive to Mokolwane one day to explore and spend a night in a new area. On 10 night safaris a night at a fly camp is also usually an option, although fly camps are subject to a minimum of 4 guests (for safety as well as logistical reasons) and weather conditions. Both Kujwana and Mokolwane are in a 'big' game area, chosen for the variety of terrain and game that favours that location. Below is an example 7 night itinerary. 5 night safaris generally follow the first part of this - but note that itineraries are examples only and daily arrangements and riding routes are always subject to change in your guides' absolute discretion according to water levels, weather, game and other local conditions.

Day 1 Met on arrival at Maun airport and shown to the helicopter that will take you on a short but spectacular flight over the Delta to Kujwana camp, a wonderful opportunity to see the entire Delta and game from the air. Meet the safari team at camp and an introductory talk over tea. Then perhaps a rest before meeting the horses and a short late afternoon ride to try them and for your first view of the area. Dinner and night Kujwana camp. (D)

Day 2 Woken early at about 5.30 am (an hour before dawn) for breakfast and to be ready for an early morning game ride at sunrise, about 6.30 am, when game viewing is best. Mount up and once everyone is settled, head off riding out across the lush green floodplain that leads from island to island, perhaps surprising a timid bushbuck out of dense cover on a heavily wooded island, or watching zebra and other antelope move through the open spaces. Stop for a snack out riding before making your way back to camp. A shower or a dip in the plunge pool if you wish before lunch in camp and then time to relax or siesta in the afternoon until tea at about 4pm. After tea, a late afternoon game drive stopping for a drink and to watch the sunset before returning to camp after dark using a spotlight to spot game such as hyena, civet and leopard. Candlelit dinner & night in Kujwana Camp. (B,L,D)

Day 3 Early wake-up call and a full morning ride, perhaps exploring the western Baobab area where small islands linked by numerous hippo channels eventually lead to 'Baobab Island', a good habitat for cheetah and breeding ground for the gorgeous carmine bee-eater, a summer visitor to the Delta. Baobab Island has thick riverine forest and is a good area for elephant (as well as the unexpected!) Lunch back in camp and after a siesta and tea, perhaps a peaceful makoro (canoe) expedition on the river or a game drive. Dinner and night Kujwana camp. (B,L,D)

Day 4 A long ride today, approximately 30km northwest and usually about 6 hours riding. The route moves through a variety of terrain, crossing open floodplain and scattered islands as you head towards the Matsebe river system, detouring to follow and watch game along the way. Stop for a picnic lunch en-route, resting on a shady island, perhaps next to a swimming hole. The about a 2 hour ride back to camp to arrive at sunset. Dinner and night Kujwana camp. (B,L,D)

Day 5 A morning ride exploring the open plains to the south of Kujwana. Then return to camp for lunch and a siesta. In the afternoon you might head off in safari vehicles, driving northwest to the beautiful Mokolwane on the Matsebe river system. The area around this camp is wide open floodplain interspersed with Mokolwane palms - favourite food of elephant and baboon. There is also usually lots of plains game here and during an afternoon game drive, you might see zebra, giraffe, wildebeest and quite possibly some big cats too. Drinks, dinner and night Mokolwane tree house camp. (B,L,D)

Day 6 An early start, setting off at dawn in the game drive vehicle to look for lions and leopard. After the thrill of watching predators in the wild head back to Mokolwane for lunch overlooking the floodplains. After lunch return to Kujwana Camp by vehicle, with time for a short siesta before getting back in the saddle for an evening ride. Dinner and night Kujwana camp. (B,L,D)

Day 7 Another exceptional full day ride, perhaps heading east to the Xudum area, stopping for a picnic lunch on the way. The ride covers 35km, with 4 hours in the morning and 2 in the afternoon. Thick riverine forest often hides a breeding herd of elephant and you will move through varied game areas, fording the Xudum river using numerous hippo channels. Back to camp for sundowners, dinner and final night in Kujwana camp. (B,L,D)

Day 8 - Depending on departure times there may be time for a last early morning game ride out of Kujwana,

INTERNATIONAL FLIGHTS AND TRAVEL INFORMATION

Maun is the safari meeting place. The best way to travel from London is generally via Johannesburg in South Africa - there are no direct flights London to Maun - although (depending on dates) there are also convenient flights via Addis Adaba with Ethiopian Airlines. You can also fly to Maun via Windhoek in Namibia, Harare in Zimbabwe and Gaborone in Botswana, but Johannesburg and Addis are usually the easiest connection points.

Travelling from London, if you fly via Johannesburg, you should plan to take an overnight flight to Johannesburg (British Airways and Virgin fly direct London to Johannesburg every day, leaving London at about 19.00 / 21.00 and arriving JHB at about 07.00 / 09.00). Once in Johannesburg, you need to change planes and take a South African Airlink or Air Botswana flight to Maun. These are daily with one (occasionally two) morning departures Johannesburg to Maun taking around 1 hr 40 mins. Due to connection times, to avoid an overnight stay in Johannesburg, British Airways are usually the best international carrier to use with the earlier BA flight recommended on the outward journey. On the return, daily flights from Maun to Johannesburg will connect with overnight return flights to London. Ethiopian Airlines have flights from London to Maun via Addis several times a week and if dates suit these are usually a very good value option. Please call us for more flight information, a quote for a flight inclusive holiday or if you would like us to book your flights. Our ATOL number for flight bookings is 6213

GENERAL VISA AND HEALTH INFORMATION

(NB this is a brief outline - further information will be sent to you if you make a confirmed booking)

Visas If you hold a full British Passport and are visiting Botswana for a holiday only and staying less than 30 days you do not need to arrange a visa in advance.

If you plan to fly via South Africa please note that there are special requirements for those travelling with children, requiring provision of birth certificates and other documents, which are strictly enforced, particularly if only one parent is accompanying.

Health No inoculations are legally required for Botswana but Polio, Tetanus, Typhoid and Hepatitis A are recommended and you will usually also be advised to take anti-Malaria tablets - you should consult a health professional for further and more detailed advice. If you are flying via Ethiopia, a Yellow Fever Vaccination Certificate is a technical requirement for entry to Botswana, although local guidance (as of April 2025) is that this is not required if you are just in transit through Addis airport from Europe and do not leave the airport.
