A Ticket to Ride

BY SANA BUTLER

FORGET SIMPLE TRAIL RIDES. HORSE lovers now have more options than ever for equestrian holidays, including herding cattle, learning polo or show jumping. British ex-lawyer Ruth Taggart and her husband spent a decade scouring the globe for the best horseback-riding spots before founding Ride World Wide, which offers custom riding tours of three, 10 or 18 nights in more than 25 countries. Recent destinations have included sand dunes in Uruguay, cattle ranches in South Africa and tented camps along the Silk Road in Kyrgyzstan (from $800; www.rideworldwide.co.uk).
