SICILY 2027

RIDE INFORMATION

These rides take place in north-east Sicily, from stables on the edge of the Madonie National Park about 1 ½ hours drive east of Palermo and 1 ½ hours north-west of Catania. Perhaps most widely known for its coastline and historic monuments, you may be surprised to discover that Sicily also has vast stretches of magnificent, unspoiled countryside. Its five natural parks include the white limestone Madonie mountains, the “Dolomites of Sicily” which rise to an altitude of 1,979 metres at Pizzo Carbonara, second highest mountain on the island. Water, collecting as snow on the mountains, feeds a network of underground springs that provide moisture for woodland that is amongst the most varied in the Mediterranean - beech, elm, holm oak, cork oak and even holly are found at heights of up to 1500m. The woodland and mountains are home to deer, wild boar and wildcats; golden eagles nest on rocky outcrops and in spring and summer there are numerous wild flowers, including over 200 species of orchid, on the grassy slopes. The pastures of the Madonie have been used as grazing for sheep and goats for centuries and the area has many ancient towns, villages, churches and castles. Some, founded by the Arabs and Normans to defend the hinterland and now virtually abandoned by a population seeking greater prosperity, have changed little over time.

Rides are organised by an excellent local team lead by Paolo Cricchio and his wife Selene Moratto. Paolo was brought up in this part of Sicily and is an experienced horseman and guide. He is very genial company and although his English is limited, his local knowledge is a tremendous asset. He is also a trained chef and loves to cook whenever he has the opportunity! Selene, is a fluent English speaker and experienced horsewoman with several years' experience in equestrian tourism behind her. Together they are great hosts with whom to discover this fascinating island.

DATES

Rides are run from set dates between March and November with several different itineraries available. Transiciliana Rides (7 nights) follow a linear route through the Madonie and Nebrodi National Parks to Mount Etna. A Short Etna Ride (4 nights) follows a route similar to the last 3 days of the Transiciliana Ride. Madonie Rides explore the Madonie National Park with itineraries that vary a little according to the weather and time of year - winter rides are progressive, changing accommodation every night or two; in summer rides use one base. For 2027 a new 7 night itinerary explores the wine estates and hidden canyons of western Sicily. Please see dates overleaf and contact us to check availability.

HORSES

Sicily has a great tradition of horses and there are estimated to be some 30,000 on the island. Historically, its rich natural resources attracted many settlers and pioneering armies who brought with them horses that gave rise to the three main Sicilian breeds of today. The first horses came with the Greeks from Persian origins; these were followed by Berber Arabs brought by the Romans, Andalucians and mixed Arabs brought by the Moors and heavier battle horses brought by the Normans. The horses used on these rides are owned by Paulo and Selene, who have a team of about 24. They are mainly geldings of around 14.2hh to 16hh and mainly crosses of the 'Sicilian Indigenous' breed developed when the island's heavier black Sanfratinallo horses were crossed with lighter Andalucians and Arabs. They are all trained by Paulo using a gentle horsemanship technique and are responsive and well-schooled. They are also sure footed, at home in the mountains and used to travelling together as a team.

TACK

Tack is good quality and uniform - mainly snaffle bridles and comfortable specially made trekking saddles with cruppers and breastplates for the mountains. Guides carry first aid kits for both horses and riders and seat savers and saddlebags are provided.

RIDING

The Transiciliana Ride includes riding on 6 days with about 6 hours in the saddle on 5 days and one shorter day with around 4 hours. Short Etna Rides include 3 days riding of around 6 hours; the Western Grand Tour has 5 days of 4-6 hours riding. Riding hours are a little more flexible on Madonie Rides which usually include about 5 hours a day, although this may be adjusted according to rider ability and weather. Rides are run for a minimum of 4 and maximum of 8 riding guests, although Madonie Rides may be confirmed for a minimum of 2 (other rides may be run for less than 4 at a supplement). Groups are led by a main riding guide, with another team member driving the back-up vehicle to move luggage. Paolo, who is the main lead guide, does not speak fluent English and although he understands and communicates pretty well, this means that occasionally, riding groups are not with a fluent English speaker. Selene's English is excellent. Horses are looked after by the guides and back up team, but riders are asked to help with their horse at lunch stops and help grooming and settling horses at the end of the day is always appreciated. You will be required to wear a hard hat when riding - please take your own to ensure a good secure fit.

WEIGHT LIMIT

The usual rider weight limit is 90kg (14 stone 2lbs) - please contact us if you are close to this to check suitable horses are available.

PACE

The rides are at a moderate pace overall, but this varies with the terrain which includes wide, winding tracks through forest, climbs up and down narrow mountain tracks as well as open grassy pasture where you can spread out. The Transiciliana, Short Etna and Western Grand Tour Rides offer a livelier pace overall and generally opportunities to trot and canter each day, as well as some wide forest tracks where long, energetic canters are possible. There are also some days on these rides (the first 2 days on the Transiciliana ride and days climbing Mt Etna) when the pace is slow, almost all at a walk on narrow tracks. Madonie Rides have occasional places to trot and for short canters but are at a slower pace overall, mostly a walk, although riding can be a little more 'technical' - when you are high in the mountains there are some tricky narrow passes, as well as mountain grassland strewn with boulders. There is some road work each day (some on tar roads, occasionally on cobbles) on all rides in the vicinity of local villages, but roads are generally quiet.

RIDING EXPERIENCE

All rides are aimed at reasonably competent, confident and fit riders who are comfortable and in control on a well-schooled horse at all paces. To participate you should be secure and well-balanced in the saddle at a walk, trot and canter, used to riding with a group of horses in open country and over varied, sometimes tricky, mountainous or rough terrain. Riding fitness is important: Transiciliana, Short Etna and Western Tour Rides follow a route that is fairly 'set' in terms of distance, meaning quite long riding hours on consecutive days and (if weather allows) some quite long energetic canters. These are for riders who are confident in their ability and fitness. Madonie Rides are more flexible. The going on these can be steep or quite rough, particularly in winter, but the route and riding hours can be tailored to suit if necessary, making them the better choice for anyone not sure of ability or fitness – although for any itinerary, if you do not ride regularly, we strongly recommend concentrated practice in the months before you go to get used to the hours in the saddle. The horses are used to a relaxed rein and go best with a relaxed contact with the mouth - there may be a short demonstration of the riding and handling technique used (based on Ed Dabney's 'six keys of harmony') on your first day.

TERRAIN

The terrain and landscape you ride through is tremendously varied with open mountain pasture, narrow rocky tracks, thick woodland, dry scrub and lava flows as well as orchards of almonds, olives, fields of wheat and vineyards in the west. The Madonie mountains are high, sharp and rocky; between them and the Nebrodi National Park is typical Sicilian countryside - fields of corn, crops or stubble, orchards and olive groves. The slopes of the sedimentary Nebrodi Mountains are gentler and rounded with numerous lakes and rivers and then there are the thick forests of Nebrodi and finally the ancient crusts, ridges, lava flows and craters of Etna volcano.

ACCOMMODATION

Accommodation is in a combination of small hotels and guesthouses, with most nights in reasonable quality village or country 'agritourism' style guesthouses chosen as far as possible for their welcome, authenticity and / or food, and some nights in more modern-style local hotels. The small guesthouses are roughly local 2* standard with bedrooms with private loo and shower room and some have a small swimming pool for summer use - always a treat after riding. The guesthouse at Mongerrati, where the horses are kept, is owned by your guides and has been recently renovated and landscaped to make a comfortable base. One night on the Transiciliana Ride is at a comfortable, more modern style 3* hotel with a pool and fantastic views to Mount Etna and the final night is also usually at a modern hotel with facilities such as a hot tub and restaurant.

On Madonie Rides one night is sometimes spent in a mountain refuge type hostel (the only available accommodation) or 'sleeping rough' in a shepherds' refuge, high in the Madonie National Park. This refuge, a traditional base for working Sicilian shepherds to milk their stock and make cheese, has been renovated to some extent for guest use - it is a great opportunity to see rural traditions 'in action' - but you will sleep in a shared room, using camp beds and sleeping bags; there are no showers and very limited facilities. Accommodation on the new Western Grand Tour is at very comfortable lodges and 4* hotels. Prices for all rides are based on twin shared rooms although singles (except in the refuge where everyone sleeps in one room) are usually possible on request for a supplement. The supplement is charged in Sicily as single rooms cannot always be guaranteed ahead.

MEALS

Great care is taken with meals with an emphasis on good local ingredients and specialities. Breakfast, at your hotel or guesthouse, will be simple in the Italian style - coffee, fruit juice, bread, croissant or sometimes a sweet cake (with eggs, cheese and ham on request). Lunch is a picnic out riding - where access is possible the back-up car meets the group with table and fold up chairs and you might have a BBQ with meat cooked over an open fire, salads or local cheeses, salamis, bread, olives and sun-drenched tomatoes. On other days, where vehicles cannot get to the lunch spot, a simple lunch is carried in saddlebags - a freshly made sandwich or perhaps a rice or pasta salad and fruit. Dinner is at your hotel or in a local restaurant and is usually a typically Sicilian four courses - antipasto, pasta, a meat course and finally pudding. Carafes of local red wine, mineral water and some soft drinks are included with lunch and dinner, you may be offered a liqueur after dinner and coffee is also included if you wish. Other drinks (beer, spirits, premium (labelled) wines) are available at extra charge. Vegetarian or other diets can be well catered for with prior notice - please advise when booking.

WEATHER

Sicily has a very pleasant Mediterranean climate with average daytime temperatures roughly 11°C in January & February, 12°C in March, 15°C April, 18°C May; 22°C June; 25°C July; 28°C August; 23°C September; 19°C October, 16°C November and 12°C in December - although it may be up to about 5°C hotter at midday and 5°C colder at night. Most rain falls in winter months but rain is possible at any time and you always need to be prepared.

WHAT TO BRING

We will send you a list when your booking is confirmed.

ITINERARIES

The Transiciliana, Short Etna and Western Grand Tour Rides follow a 'progressive' route, stopping at different accommodation most nights. The Madonie Rides are circuit rides in winter including some nights in different accommodation; in summer, all nights are usually at one agritourism base, with the possibility of one night at a shepherds' hut high in the Madonie Mountains - always a highlight. The following is an example itinerary for the Transiciliana Ride but please note it is only an example and day by day arrangements, route and riding hours may be varied by your guides in their absolute discretion if weather or other local conditions require. Please contact us for other itineraries.

Transiciliana Ride - Example itinerary.

Day 1 - Met at Catania airport (arrival by 14.00) and transfer usually departing at 14.30 about an hour and a half to the first night's accommodation in the hamlet of Mongerrati, an island in a sea of oak forest at the gateway to the Madonie National Park. Settle in and time to meet your guide before an introductory briefing. Dinner and the night Mongerrati guest house. (D)

Day 2 - Breakfast before a short walk to meet the horses and an introduction to the horses and riding technique. Mount up and once everyone is settled, set off for the first day's ride into the Madonie mountains, riding a looping route to Mount Pizzo Dipilo. The ride today is slow, mainly at a walk so you have plenty of time to get used to your horse, following shepherds' paths through mediterranean scrub and oak forests. There are views of the coast and the pretty town of Gratteri before you descend to the village meeting the back-up for a light lunch. In the afternoon ride back to Mongerrati, passing the ruins of the 12th C Abbey of San Giorgio. Time to relax with an aperitif on the terrace or by the pool before dinner and the night at Mongerrati guest house. (B,L,D)

Day 3 - Breakfast and set off riding, climbing through centuries-old oak woods and following rocky paths with breathtaking views of the valley below. Again the riding is slow today, climbing to an unspoilt plateau where herds of deer and wild boar are often seen and then Piano Battaglia, the highest point of the ride. From here continue to Piano Farina, a charming mountain village where you stop for a light lunch in a shepherds' hut. After lunch and a short siesta, head down to Geraci Siculo, with wonderful views over this hilltop town and fort and, on a clear day, to Mt Etna in the distance. Leave the horses and a short drive to the night's accommodation, a guesthouse in, or just outside, the village of Geraci Siculo. (B,L,D)

Day 4 - Breakfast and a short drive re-join the horses. Once mounted, set off crossing the valley of the Rainò stream to begin the climb into the 'Nebrodi Mountains'. Leaving behind the vast wheat fields of the Rainò area, the route follows a wide dirt road that passes some wind turbines and winds along the top of high hills crossing the 'Sambuchetti-Campanito' nature reserve. There should be some good chances for canters before reaching a small clearing where there is a stop for a picnic lunch. After lunch, set off riding again, descending the green slopes of Monte Soprano until you reach the farm of the same name. A warm welcome by the owners, Antonio and his family, and if the pool is open, perhaps time for a refreshing swim. The farm is an important producer of beef, lamb and mutton as well as cheese, and there's often a chance to taste the delicious home grown produce and specialities at dinner. Night Agriturismo Monte Soprano. (B,L,D)

Day 5 - Breakfast and ride to Capizzi, an ancient village at the gates of Nebrodi Park. There may be time for a short break in the town, where you also collect your saddle bag picnic lunch, before continuing the climb along the “Dorsale dei Nebrodi” a path that winds through beech forests and is the basis of the route for the next two days. After reaching the ridge, the path follows the water divide through thick shaded woodland - you may be lucky enough to see some of the area’s wild horses, the dark bay or black “Sanfratellano’s horses” and the wild pigs “Little black pigs of Nebrodi”, which roam free here. Stop for a sandwich picnic lunch (the vehicle cannot reach you today) and in the afternoon ride on to Villa Miraglia, a guesthouse hidden in the beech woods. A delicious dinner and the night Villa Miraglia. (B,L,D)

Day 6 - Breakfast at the guesthouse then mount up to head off again. Today is the longest day of the week and, one by one there are views of the four main lakes of the Park - Maulazzo, Biviere, Cartolari and Tre Arie. To the south the mass of Etna Volcano dominates the landscape and to the north you can see the Eolian island archipelago and the Tyrrhenian Sea. Stop for a saddlebag picnic lunch (again the vehicle cannot access this area) near a refuge close to Lake Cartolari. In the afternoon continue the ride down into the Flascio Valley on the slopes of Mt Etna - now so close you feel you could reach out and touch it. Leave the horses at a local farm and transfer a short way by minibus to the Fucina del Vulcano Hotel, a comfortable modern style hotel with a pool and exceptional views towards Etna. Dinner and night at the hotel. (B,L,D)

Day 7 - Breakfast and the final riding day. During the first part of the morning, the route takes you through the simple and rural landscape typical of the northern slopes of Etna, characterised by a variety of small farms surrounded by typical stone walls. Once you enter the Etna Park, the landscape changes dramatically: olive trees and vineyards are replaced by oaks, conifers and beeches. Although the upper parts of the volcano are barren and arid, the lower slopes are covered with forest, alternating with more recent lava flows. Stop for a light lunch near one of the many refuges in the Park, to take advantage of the water supply, as there are no springs on the north side of Etna. Then mount up again to continue, first following the wide path that winds towards the summit, climbing to the craters of the 2001 eruption. From here, weather permitting, you may be able to make the last short ascent, following the small path to the top of the extinct craters, with magnificent views of the Strait of Messina. After enjoying the view, start the ride down to meet the truck which will take the horses home. After saying goodbye to the horses, there is a short drive to the night's hotel, the Maraneve Resort (or similar), in Linguaglossa, where the last night is spent. A celebratory drink with your guides before they leave to take the horses home. Final dinner and night Maraneve Resort (or similar). (B,L,D)

Day 8 - Breakfast and group minibus transfer (about 1 ½ hours) to Catania airport (the set transfer will not leave before 07.30 but will leave in time for the earliest flight departure in the group - to be confirmed when there; if you prefer a private transfer can be arranged at an extra cost).
